

...I wanted to depict Obama's campaign in a more cerebral style similar to that of John Coltrane's classic album, Blue Train where there are complex chord structures and challenging themes. Compare this to the GOP simplistic jingoism and you can see a distinct difference. The only question is whether the voters in November will listen to Obama's tune.

You can see more by David Donar at <http://politicalgraffiti.wordpress.com/>.
(We love your new header, David!)